

MWANAUME

by Tyrelm · Single · 2025

THE ARTIST

Tyrelm is a Nairobi-based singer-songwriter who sits comfortably at the intersection of Afro-soul, R&B, and spoken word. He writes music the way a journal entry reads — honest, unfiltered, and deeply human.

Growing up navigating the pressures of modern Kenyan life, Tyrell found music to be the one place he didn't have to pretend. No armour, no performance — just truth. That rawness is what makes his art resonate far beyond a single city or culture.

He blends Swahili and English the way his thoughts actually move — fluidly, without translation, because some feelings don't need to be explained. They just need to be felt.

ABOUT THE SONG

Mwanaume — released in 2025 — is a meditation on what it costs to be a man when the world has a very narrow definition of what that looks like.

The title translates directly to "Man" in Swahili, but the song asks a harder question underneath that single word: what does it actually mean to carry yourself through a world that expects you to be unbreakable?

Tyrel writes from the inside of that experience — the sleepless nights, the self-doubt that hides behind hustle, the quiet loneliness of feeling like you're running a race with no finish line. The chorus — "Mwanaume si ni jasho? Nimekuwa niki hustle" (Is manhood not sweat? I have been hustling) — is a question and a declaration at once. A man talking to himself in the dark.

The production is intentionally sparse and warm, giving the words room to breathe. This is not a song about giving up. It is a song about being honest enough to say I am tired — and choosing to keep going anyway.

LYRICS

Sometimes I feel like I am drowning
Fighting my fears, finding my balance
So many times I try to prove I am worthy
Too many times I lie, I know I'm not perfect
My mind is like a puzzle, struggling to find my peace
Nimesongwa na mawazo
And I can't get some sleep

Mwanaume si ni jasho? Nimekuwa niki hustle

Na akili pia muslce

Feels like I am walking to a battle

It feels like I am out of time
It feels like I live a lie
Maybe one day I'll shine
I'm waiting for stars to align
My mind is like a puzzle, struggling to find my peace
Nimesongwa na mawazo
And I can't get some sleep, I can't get some sleep

Mwanaume si ni jasho? Nimekuwa niki hustle

Na akili pia muslce

Feels like I am walking to a battle
